Join A New Study for OCD

Bio Behavioral Institute is taking part in a research study for an investigational medication that would be added to your current treatment for OCD.

There hasn't been any new medications developed for OCD since 1997.

By participating you can help us find better treatment options for the millions of people like you, living with OCD.

You may be eligible to participate if:

- You are between 18-65 years old
- Have been diagnosed with or may have OCD
- You are currently taking a medication for OCD
